AMSTERDAM

Guy Taylor, an executive leader, having trained in MMA under Rodney King in the early 2000s, Guy found his preference scrambling on the floor. Martial Arts have become a way for Guy to focus on his own inner game, while translating sports strategies into winning business strategies in the data science and analytics domain.

Since 2020 Guy has been refocusing on his stand-up game given the risks associated with full-contact wrestling, and is now excited to get back to his favourite past time: rolling.
